BOARDMAN GIVES BATTLE

Sailors Attempt to Take Motor Boat and Get Short End of It.

About 1 o'clock this Monday morning James Boardman, who runs a ferry between Kittery and this city, was aroused by hearing loud voices on his landing and on going to the place he found five or six sailors from the U. S. S. San Francisco who were endeavoring to start his motor boat. He remonstrated with them and one of the party declared if they could not start the boat they would sink the craft.

Mr. Boardman talked to the men and they finally left the boat. On the float one of the party picked up a boat swab and started to make an attack with the handle on Mr. Boardman. Officers of the party started in with the intention of cleaning Mr. Boardman up, but they reckoned without the coast. One by one they went down from blows from Jim's fists, one being knocked into the river.

When only two remained, the fellow who started the row and another, Boardman devoted his attention to the former and the two bent a hasty retreat. Boardman had previously telephoned to the marsh gate but when the marine guard got there the battle was over.

Mr. Boardman has been running a ferry on the river for the past six years and this is the first time that he has ever had any trouble with the sailors.

TROOPS FIRE ON NATIONALISTS

Four Killed in Dublin Home Rule Battle and Sixty Wounded When Scottish Border Troops Fire on Mob

Dublin, July 26.—Three men and one woman are dead and more than sixty people are in the hospital wounded as a result of a battallion of the King's Own Scottish Borderers firing into a mob in the streets of Dublin this afternoon. Seven of the wounded are expected to succumb to their injuries. The wounded included three women and a boy of 10.

The affray was the result of a gun-running exploit of the Nationalist volunteers who were being aided by a mob composed largely of women and youths.

A consignment of rifles said to number 10,000 was landed at noon today at Howth, nine miles from Dublin. The vessel on which the arms were brought to Howth was a private yacht. The Nationalist volunteers cut the telegraph wires and stopped travel on the Dublin roads and according to reports, sent away most of the rifles, together with 70,000 rounds of ammunition, in motor cars.

A battallion of the King's Own Scottish Borderers was ordered to capture the arms this afternoon when the authorities heard that the volunteers were bringing them into the city.

The soldiers encountered a detachment of volunteers on Clonmel bridge and an outbreak resulted. There was no shooting however. A great crowd soon collected and followed the troops jeering them, and cheering for John Redmond, the Nationalist leader, and home rule.

Finally the mob began throwing bottles and stones and several soldiers were injured.

The battallion then replied to the attack of the mob with a scattered fusillade. In an instant the street was covered with wounded while terrified men, women and children ran in all directions.

St. Jura's hospital in situated only 200 yards from the scene of the affray, and the wounded were quickly taken there. Four of them died within two hours. The soldiers and police seized a hundred rifles from volunteers.

Excited crowds filled the streets of Dublin tonight. Some of the men carried rifles. The Borderers were confined to barracks to prevent the people from attacking them. A street car in which a soldier was riding was wrecked tonight, but the soldier escaped the mob. Further rioting is feared.

Among those seriously wounded in the affray is M. J. Judge, a prominent officer of the Nationalist volunteers.

The yacht from which the arms were landed was a sailing vessel, the name of which had been painted over.

A woman of a man in woman's clothing, some persons say, commanded the yacht.

A thousand volunteers marched

WANTS PRISON ABOLISHED FOR NAVY DESERTERS

Secretary Favors Dishonorable Discharge.—Same Punishment for Drunks in the Service

Abolition of imprisonment as a punishment for deserters from the navy in time of peace is the latest reform announced by Mr. Daniels, Secretary of the Navy.

In a new regulation made public on Saturday, Mr. Daniels introduces the theory that the navy is now so popular an institution for enlisted men that instead of punishing deserters it can afford to rid itself of them by dishonorable discharge.

Even this punishment will not be inflicted upon first offenders. They will be taken back into the service on probation, but if they fail to maintain a satisfactory record during the remainder of their enlistment period, or if they repeat their offense of desertion, they will be dishonorably discharged.

The second radical change ordered by Mr. Daniels is that enlisted men who are dissatisfied may in the future purchase an honorable discharge by repaying to the government the amounts expended upon them in allowances.

In a statement issued in explanation of his regulation, Mr. Daniels says that the navy now is enlisted up to its full strength and is ready to start a waiting list. In this condition he considers that the service is not in need of dissatisfied men. If a man wants to leave the service Mr. Daniels proposes to make it easy for him to do so. He hopes to prove that the man needs the navy more than the navy needs the man.

Dishonorable discharge will also be made the penalty for drunkenness on shore. As in the case of desertions, first offenders will be taken back on probation.

LOCAL MAN GETS CONTRACT.

John N. Pearson of this city, the well known dealer in fire works, has been awarded the contract for furnishing the fire works display at Exeter on Saturday evening, Aug. 8, which brings

ENGLAND WILL RECOGNIZE CARRANZA

Admiral Craddock Pays His Respects --Admiral Mayo Also a Caller on the First Chief.

Tampico, via Galveston, Texas, July 26.—An important conference was held this morning between General Carranza and Rear Admiral Sir Christopher Craddock, of the British cruiser Suffolk, which came here from Vera Cruz for the express purpose of holding such a meeting. It was arranged for twelve o'clock this noon, and on the exact moment the Rear Admiral, accompanied by four members of his staff, appeared at the state palace where General Carranza makes his headquarters and was formally received by Acting Secretary Pablos, who escorted the visitors to General Carranza's presence and introduced them. British Consul Wilson accompanied the naval visitors. After the conference it was announced by constitutionalist officials that Rear Admiral Craddock had come to Tampico under express instruction from his government and that he had been instructed to render to the First Chief "the compliments and services" of that government.

After preliminary introductions and an exchange of courtesies Rear Admiral Craddock had a private conference with Carranza. While the nature of that conference was not disclosed, it is believed that it had to do with guarantees on the part of the constitutionalist leader that the lives and property of citizens and foreigners would be protected to the utmost in case Mexico City surrendered. It is believed that such guarantees were given.

The Suffolk left for Vera Cruz last night. Prior to the visit of the English officers Rear Admiral Mayo of the American fleet, accompanied by his staff, also called on General Carranza and courtesies were exchanged though beyond that there was no conference. The First Chief will also return this visit by going aboard the Minnesota today. Consuls Sullivan and Miller and Vice Consul Devan took part in the reception. Rear Admiral Mayo was accompanied by Captain Simpson, Captain Sterling and Lieutenant Cook.

This morning General Carranza was rendered a reception in the Princess Theatre by the professors and Directors General of Public Instruction. In the afternoon there was a review of the forces General Carranza, who took a prominent part of the capture of Tampico; school children and various societies participated.

TROLLEY WIRE DOWN, BUT NO DELAY.

About eight hundred feet of trolley wire on the Rye line came down shortly before eight o'clock on Saturday evening and with the Saturday evening rush on it caused considerable trouble. Supt. Dowdell however had a repair crew on the job in short order and only one trip was missed, the 8.30. The cars were kept running by temporary repairs, and it was late Sunday morning when the repair crew had the job completed.

THE GOOD OLD HYMNS

There's lots of music in 'em—the hymns of long ago, And when some grave-haired brother sings the ones I used to know, I never want to take a hand, I think of days gone by.

"On Jordan's stormy banks I stand and cast a wistful eye!"

There's lot of music in 'em—those dear, sweet hymns of old, With visions bright of lands of light, and shining streets of gold; And I hear 'em ringing—singing, where men're, dreaming, stands. "From Greenland's icy mountains to India's coral strands."

They seem to sing forever of better, sweeter days, When the lilacs of the love of that bloomed while in all the ways; And I want to hear their music from the old-time meetings rise. "I'll read my little clear to man-sions in the skies."

We never needed sligh't books in them old days—we knew The words, the tunes, of every one—the dear old hymn book through! We didn't have no trumpets then, no organs built for show, We only sang to praise the Lord "from whom all blessings flow."

An' so I love the old hymns, and when my time shall come— Before the light has left me, and my singing lips are dumb— If I can hear 'em sing them then (I) pass without a sigh To "Canaan's fair and happy land where my possessions lie."

Sunday only one arrest was made for drunkenness, a woman found on Middle street.

AMERICAN VETERANS IN BAD WAY IN PHILIPPINES

Boston, July 26.—Officers of the Bucknall Line steamship Matapo, which arrived Saturday from the Philippines, confirmed the statements of Dean C. Worcester and Spanish War veteran officers that more than 500 veterans in the Philippine service have been forced out of employment with little notice by the new Philippine régime.

According to the statement of these officers, Americans are walking the streets of Manila out of work, and unable to return to America because of lack of means. They cannot leave the country because most of them have no money. Many of them, however, have married native women and for that reason are bound to remain there.

Most of the Americans who are now out of positions have fought in the Philippine in defense of the American Government.

One of the officers said that Gen. Francis Burton Harrison had made the statement that he is not running an institution for old soldiers.

The Matapo, owing to lack of room was obliged to refuse applicants for passage.

The Philippine controversy was brought to the attention of President Wilson last week by Dean C. Worcester, who understands the situation thoroughly and, as a result of his statement, the conditions in the Philippines will probably be investigated.

The steamship which brought in a rich cargo of gunnies, hemp, elms, cigars and general merchandise, had holsten weather in the Red Sea, during which one of the Larson sail was thrown against the side of the vessel and broke his leg. He was landed at Perin and sent to the hospital for treatment.

SUNSET LEAGUE FINISH IS CLOSE

This is the last week of the regular games of the Sunset League, but owing to the fact that there are four postponed or the games to be played off, the games will take still another week. The Morley Button Factory have but one more game to play and that will be this evening with the Y. M. C. A. It is an important game for if the Y. M. C. A. lose, and the P. A. C. win their two games still to be played, they will get the pennant.

The Y. M. C. A. have four games to play, the Morleys this evening, the Marines on Thursday and the K. of C. on Monday of next week, and one postponed game with the C. C. Co.

The P. A. C. have two games to play, the Knights of Columbus on Wednesday evening and a game with the Consolidation on Friday evening. Should they win both games they would be practically sure of the championship, although the Y. M. C. A. by winning all four of their games would tie.

The Consolidation, Knights of Columbus and Marines each have three games to play.

There is still a fighting chance for the M. B. Co. for if they win their remaining game this evening and the P. A. C. lose both of theirs, they would tie for first place in fact a triple tie is possible.

FOOLISH DISTRUST OF BANKS.

"Every child should have a bank account and be taught to make it grow gradually but surely. An intelligently managed bank gives youth its start in life, middle age its competency and old age its comfort and security."

Postmaster General A. S. Burleson.

Very frequently one reads in the newspapers about persons who have lost a large amount of money, perhaps the savings of a lifetime, because they did not have confidence enough in banks to leave their money on deposit there.

They preferred to act as their own bankers and lived in regret their folly.

Here is a summary of a number of recent news items of that nature:

Mammoth Springs, Ark.—When Mrs. Kate Williams sold her home several days ago she showed the money, $3,000, in a leather satchel and elected to be its guardian. Early in the morning a small band of men rode into Mammoth Springs, robbed the house at which Mrs. Williams was a guest and made off with the satchel.

Jersey City, N. J.—The other night while Nicola Dambrosia, Nicola Lucarelli and Tony Lucarelli slept in their flat in the basement of the tenement house at 123 Myrtle avenue a thief crept in and stole the three pairs of trousers that cover the sturdy limbs of Dambrosia and the brothers Lucarelli in the day time. But in the trousers of Nicola Dambrosia snuggled $2,350, and in those of Nicola Lucarelli $850, and yet again in those of Tony Lucarelli $110—all sweet American dollars, dug with the pick and the shovel.

Altoona, Pa.—When Thomas Fitzsimmons, an electrical engineer, returned to his home from a night job he found his wife and five children all partly under the influence of chloroform, while the home had been thoroughly searched. Ten hundred dollars had been taken from its hiding place. Having no confidence in banks, Fitzsimmons kept his savings in the house.

Terre Haute, Ind.—Robert Blonger, a glass blower, put $45 in gold and silver in the bottom of a coal hod and filled the latter with coal to hide the money over night. The next morning he made a fire and dumped coal and gold into the stove. Suddenly he recalled hiding the money and frantically extinguished the fire. The coin was melted into a lump.

South Scranton, Pa.—Fearing to trust his hoard to any of the local banking institutions, Frank Scholtski secreted it behind a picture in his home. One day last week during his temporary absence some stranger cleaned out the "hoard."

Seattle, Wash.—Mrs. George Shen at Duluth, Minn., who is visiting her sister, Mrs. John English, in a suburb of Seattle, has reported to the police that she has been robbed of $20,000 in currency.

Mrs. Shen's husband, who intended to follow her from Duluth, and buy property here, shipped the money to her by express. She intended to put the money into a bank at once, but for various reasons put it off. When she and her sister decided to visit Seattle they hid the $20,000 between the sheets of a bed. On returning home at night found that burglars had ransacked the house and stolen the treasure.

Speedy Trials.

A western newspaper in commenting on the fact that a number of Chicago judges have decided to forego their summer vacations in order that defendants unable to furnish bonds may have the benefit of speedy trials, says that while the action will appear magnanimous it is in reality no more than the judges should do. It emphasizes the wrong of keeping a man in jail on the suspicion of guilt while the judge is taking his vacation. A trial may show him to be innocent, but he has no redress for the suffering he has undergone. "For the man with money to put up in lieu of lying in jail it may not matter so much," says this paper, "but to the man of no means speedy trial is vital." The paper goes on to say that "there is no more reason for stopping the machinery of justice than for shutting down the wheels of industry," and argues that there is even less reason because of the hardships suffered by defendants in jail awaiting trial.

To do away with this entirely would mean all-the-year-round courts, and it is a question whether that would not be an improvement over the present state of things. Such an arrangement would not only afford speedy trials for defendants, but would compel speedy trials, which in many cases are the last thing wanted. The lack of speedy trial is in a vast majority of cases not the fault of the courts, but the result of maneuvering for time by counsel for defendants, for purposes well understood. Cases are carried from one court to another, appeal after appeal is taken and every possible means is employed to stave off the conclusion of important trials, in the hope that the mellowing influence of time will prove favorable to those who instead of demanding speedy trials exert themselves to the utmost to slay them off.

There are two sides to this question, for there is no reason why the public is not as much entitled to the benefits of speedy trials as defendants. There are those who are beginning to feel that the courts should be in continuous session, so long there is anything for them to do, to the end that murder cases and others of importance could be carried from beginning to end without delay. This "continuous performance" might cost more, but it is quite possible that the results would be worth the cost. There is no good reason why a murder trial should occupy a number of years, as is frequently the case. The public has as much reason to demand speedy trials as defendants have, and if these could be had in all cases the public interests would be better served.

A woman arrested in New York for soliciting alms in the streets was found to be loaded with money and to have in her possession a bank book showing deposits of nearly $1,000. And in San Francisco recently a woman sued her blind and paralyzed husband for divorce and alimony, claiming that he collected from $6 to $8 a day by begging and that he had a very substantial bank account. Such things show the risk one takes in handing out money to persons they do not know, however destitute they may appear.

There is a suspicion in New York that Becky Edelson, an anarchist who is in prison for inciting to riot, prefers secret feeding to forcible feeding. She began a hunger strike, but is standing the ordeal so well that the authorities are convinced that food is reaching her in sufficient quantity. The British suffragettes should take a lesson from Becky, who, if reports are true, shows mighty good sense in at least one direction.

Surgeon General Gorgas of the United States army thinks the time will come when the tropics will be peopled by whites. He believes improved sanitation will make this possible and that the greater ease with which a living can be made in the tropics will lead to a general movement southward. But what is to become of the natives when this movement begins?

A party of Americans in London were shocked the other day by the refusal of a porter to take a tip. He said he was paid for his work by his employers. It would be possible for tippers all over the world to bring about just such a state of things, but they show no disposition to do it.

Connecticut is baiting the army worm into ditches with poisoned sweets, and then covering the ditches. The scheme is reported to be working well, and would seem to be worth investigating by other troubled sections.

Russia is shutting down severely on the use of intoxicants in the army. The question now is whether the Russian army is being Americanized or the American navy is being Russianized.

Immigrants are pouring into the country faster than they can be absorbed. It must be that they have not heard of the hard times here and abroad, or that they are not getting work.

Whiskey distillers are preparing to reduce, not the price, but the output. But there will still be a supply at the old figures.

Nonsinkable Power Lifeboat In Which Newlyweds Will Cross Ocean

This is a picture of the patented power lifeboat in which Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Steward, newlyweds, will attempt to sail across the Atlantic. Steward is a New York naval architect and had much to do with planning the new boat. So sure is he that it will prove nonsinkable unless run down by a steamer that he is willing to risk the lives of his bride and himself, together with the lives of a wireless operator, an engineer and an able seaman who will accompany him on his perilous voyage. The party plans to leave St. Johns for Queenstown early in August. The boat is thirty-six feet long and twelve feet wide. It has a little cabin and wireless apparatus. It is divided into water-tight compartments.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

THE MARINES

Originally in the British navy, the marines served as a sort of police on shipboard and were hated by the sailors accordingly. In the United States the marines have always acted rather in the nature of sea soldiers, and their record has made a notable one. They are usually the first to arrive when the ship is to be set up on some shore over sea, and not infrequently they are the last to leave. They have already had a sharp experience in Mexico, and from there they will probably move without fuss or excitement to Haiti and Santo Domingo, where they are, evidently needed. The authorized strength of the corps is roughly ten thousand and it has frequently been urged that the number is not equal to the work required, but congress has not seen fit to make the increase. Originally in the past considerable numbers of the marines have been stationed at the navy yards where they serve as a sort of police, but these are pretty well stripped of them at the present time. It has recently been pointed out that there are five or six hundred United States marines in West Indies waters, and four hundred more were to sail from New York to more were to sail from Norfolk to our base at Guantanamo, Cuba, Saturday. Four thousand are with the fleet at Vera Cruz, or serving with the army on shore. There is a marine guard at the American legation in Peking, and another is engaged in preventing revolutions in Nicaragua. Some are in the Philippines, and there are some more at Guam. Accustomed to move like clockwork and ready for any service to which they are ordered, the marines are an efficient and exceedingly useful corps, and as the work which they are admirably fitted for appears to be on the increase and likely to continue so it would appear to be the part of wisdom on the part of congress to authorize an addition to its numerical strength.—Manchester Union.

Dread Army Worm Again on March; Latest Foe of American Farmer.

The army worm is on the march again in various parts of the land, particularly in the eastern states. Of course the army worm is not new, but it has not been in devastating evidence of recent years. This summer it has been fully recruited and has stormed the crops with dire effect. The picture shows a band of the worms on the march in a field. Farmers are busy fighting them, the favorite method being the digging of ditches, into which the worms go and are then burned with oil.

RAILROAD NOTES

Brakeman John Chaffey of the Boston and Maine passenger department, who has a run on the first Boston train to this city was among the railroad men who lost everything in the Salem fire. The only relic which he has to cherish is his watch, chain and chain, which he found several days after the conflagration. His clothing was moved to a garage and later the garage went up in smoke. He took a chance in his hunt for something that might possibly be recognizable, and after much work dug up the watch attachment. One side of the chain had melted off but the chain was in fair shape.

L. S. Butler of Farmington has been appointed general agent for the Boston and Maine at Old Orchard. He was formerly in charge of the Sawyers Station on the Dover branch.

The train from Concord and Manchester was crowded with passengers on Sunday for the Isles of Shoals, York Beach and other nearby summer resorts.

Night gateman William Downing has recovered from his recent illness and returned to his duties at the Vaughan street crossing. John Devoney who has been acting in his place will go to the Market street crossing.

AUTO CUT TELEGRAPH POLE DOWN

A telegraph pole on the Lafayette road was broken off by an automobile shortly before six o'clock Saturday night and the pole left standing supported by the wires.

The machine which evidently collided with the pole was not badly damaged enough but what it continued on its way. The pole was cut off clean near the ground so that the shock of the collision must have been heavy.

VOLUNTEERS PARADE

Show Strength But No Trouble Expected

Belfast, July 26.—A parade of two full regiments of Ulster Volunteers numbering several thousand men was held here tonight.

All the men carried rifles and their equipment included several machine guns which were strongly guarded.

The marchers traversed the principal streets and their demonstrations, the boldest exhibition of Orange strength attempted to date in the Home Rule struggle, aroused great enthusiasm.

Referring to Ireland, and the failure of the recent conference of party leaders held at Buckingham Palace, in a speech at Ballymena tonight, Francis Dyke Aherne, Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs, said:

"There is much cause for regret, but much for hope. The conference has broken up, but something has been gained in their being heard as the representatives of the great parties. At the table the members of the conference learned to respect each other's point of view."

"We Liberals will not betray the trust which the Irish people have placed in us. Our motto must be 'Trust the Liberal leaders.'"

BRAVE UNDER FIRE

Cool Deeds of Mexicans in Battle Oh served by Lieut. Disque.

The Mexicans are possessed of great personal bravery in the opinion of First Lieut. Bruce P. Disque, 3d United States Cavalry, who has had the opportunity of seeing the Mexican soldier in action. Lieut. Disque saw the battle of Nuevo Laredo in January between the United States forces and those of Carranza.

"No one who saw this affair," he writes, "can ever believe that the Mexican is lacking in bravery, courage or initiative."

In illustrating this personal courage, the lieutenant tells of the action of several Mexican soldiers in the heavy fighting. With a small detachment an officer of the federal army rode out from the center of the line to remount. Though the bullets were tearing up the ground around him the of-

(ALWAYS AT YOUR SERVICE)

He calmly rode forward until his horse was shot from under him. Then he stepped free of his fallen animal, stopped to light a cigarette, and slowly walked back to the works. He was smoking, and apparently in no way excited over his dangerous predicament.

It was a man in Carranza's army working a machine gun who gave another display of bravery. This man was working the gun in the open. He would fire a few rounds and then stand up and walk about a few minutes to return to his gun and fire some more. All this was done under a perfect rain of bullets. Finally one of them struck him and he fell back apparently killed. No sooner had he fallen than another man broke from shelter and took his position at the gun. He, too, continued to calmly operate it until he was struck. Then came a third man. He picked the gun up and moved it to a more advantageous position and then began, without haste, to grind out death to his enemy. The lieutenant comments that not one of these men made a hurried motion. They were deliberate and apparently unexcited and indifferent to their danger.

Lieut. Disque furnishes an exception to this rule of bravery, and it was a dramatic incident of the battle. A federal soldier attempted to desert and make for the river with the intention, evidently, of crossing to Texas territory. He saw the man leave the line to desert. At the same time some of his own troops caught sight of the deserter. In a minute he was ridden with bullets, and later was dragged from a telegraph pole.

From line to line the combatants would shout their opinions to each other. "Is that the way you fight for Huerta?" would be shouted in derision. "Stick up your head and show us how brave you are," was advice given more than once. The lieutenant says that with all it was a deadly earnest fight with death for the loser. This, he comments, was apparent when a detachment of fifty federals was surrounded early in the morning of the first day's fighting and killed to a man. It was a case of no quarter given—Cavalry Journal.

WILD MAN SHOTS UP TRAIN

Two Men and a Woman Hit on New Haven Flier.

New York, July 26.—Two men and a woman were shot on a New York, New Haven & Hartford express train from Boston within the city limits tonight in a supposed attempt by a youthful "bandit" to hold up the passengers.

With a red bandanna handkerchief over his face and brandishing a revolver, the youth, who later said he was Charles S. Parnell, aged 24, of Brooklyn, rushed from the rear end of the last car through the five coaches firing indiscriminately.

After three of his shots had taken effect and with passengers and trainmen in hot pursuit, he ran toward the front of the train, reloading his revolver, pulled the emergency cord and jumped to the roadbed in an effort to escape.

John Shay, aged 23, of New Haven, a trainman, was shot in the arm; Austin Dyce, a sailor, was shot in the abdomen; Mrs. Bessy Thorsen, aged 40, of West New Brighton, S. I., was struck in the cheek by a bullet, which passed out through the mouth, knocking out five teeth.

As Parnell jumped from the train a score of infuriated passengers pursued him to the stoop of a building in the Bronx. He held the crowd at bay until the arrival of policemen, to whom he surrendered when they forced their way through to him.

GRAND OVATION TO GEORGE R. MEEHAN

Manchester, N. H., Greets Champion Swimmer

Manchester, N. H., July 26.—George R. Meehan, champion long distance swimmer of America, who won the race from the Battery to Sandy Hook in New York Harbor last Sunday, was given an ovation in Manchester Saturday afternoon.

Meehan arrived here at 2 o'clock in a special car from Boston and was accompanied by about 100 members of the Brookline Swimming Club. He was met at the depot by a large number of his Manchester friends, accompanied by a band. A column was formed and marched to City Hall, where Mayor Charles C. Hayes welcomed him and presented him a large silver key, symbolical of the freedom of the city.

The celebration then went in special trolley cars to "Blue" Island Park, where champion Meehan delivered an address, telling of his experiences in his record swim. Afterward he entered the water and gave an exhibition of the strokes he had used. He was then the guest at a luncheon served at The Elms, Golf Hotel.

Lawrence J. Johnson, president of the Brookline Club, and Al McCormick, former champion plunger also a member of the Brookline Club, were active in perfecting plans for the reception given Mr. Meehan. The trophy cup won by the champion is on exhibition in this city.

The members of the reception committee wore badges inscribed: "Welcome home to George R. Meehan, long distance American swimming champion, Battery to Sandy Hook, July 19, 1914, 7 hours, 18 minutes and 30 seconds."

CORSET STEEL SAVES YOUNG WOMAN'S LIFE

Bullet Crashes Through Chamber Window.

Dover, N. H., July 26.—Peter Pappas, aged 23, was arrested Saturday afternoon in the hay field on the farm of John Lucas, his employer, as the result of his too free use of a revolver Friday evening while hunting woodchucks. A shot alleged to have been fired by him crashed through a chamber window at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Grady, near which their daughter, Miss Annie Grady, was standing and struck her in the side. The bullet flattened against a steel of her corset and then fell to the floor.

Miss Grady rushed downstairs to her parents and cried out "I am shot." She was nearly overcome by the occurrence, but was unhurt.

It was later learned that Pappas, who had been using freely a new revolver, purchased on July 4, was out shooting. On being found and questioned he said he saw a bird in a tree and shot at it. Evidently the bullet was partially spent when it entered the Grady home.

Pappas was hooked on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, but in view of his recent actions and his refusal to say anything after his arrest in explanation of the affair, except that he was only hunting woodchucks and was "not a bad man," the police had County Physician O'Doherty and Dr. George A. Tolman examine him as to his mental condition. Dr. Tolman afterward stated that Pappas was undoubtedly all right mentally.

His use of the revolver, the doctor said, was just "boyish foolishness." Pappas will be arraigned today.

TO MEET IN BOSTON

A. O. U. Vote at Norfolk Convention
Norfolk, Va., July 26.—Joseph McLaughlin of Philadelphia was elected National president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians at Saturday's closing session of the biennial convention, and Boston was chosen for the meeting place of the order in 1916.

McLaughlin was chosen over Maurice Donnelly of Indiana by a majority of 131. The vote was: McLaughlin, 255; Donnelly, 134.

Other officers elected were: Patrick P. Cannon of Clinton, Mass., National vice president; N. W. Delaney of Blinn, treasurer; P. J. Sullivan of Connecticut, secretary; J. C. Foy, National president for Canada; John P. Hailey of Delaware; Thomas J. Mathews of Rhode Island; Edward R. Hayes of New Jersey; James Chauncy of Michigan and Miles F. McParland of New York, directors.

Instead of paying the president a salary of $3600 a year and expenses, in the future he will receive no salary and will be allowed $2700 annually for expenses. The secretary will be paid a salary of $1500 and is allowed $2000 a year for expenses.

THREE KILLED BY TRAIN AT MANCHESTER

Manchester, N. H., July 26.—A triple tragedy was disclosed Saturday night by the headlights of the locomotive of a northbound train on the Boston & Maine railroad just beyond the Amesbury station, when the bodies of two men and a woman were seen lying on or near the tracks. They had been killed by a train that passed some time before, but whether on the north or southbound tracks could not definitely be determined.

A policeman who saw the bodies expressed the opinion that one of the men was employed as a watchman at the Amesbury mills. He thought his first name was George, but he could not remember the last name. The woman is believed to be the man's wife. She wore a wedding ring. The victims appeared to be about 30 or 35 years old. All were badly mangled, the head of one of the men being cut off.

The possibility that the people were killed by The Wells special, a northbound train, running from The Wells to Boston, was suggested by an official report made by the engineer of that train on his arrival in Boston last night that a man's body had been found hanging to the tender. The hat apparently was purchased in Manchester or Derry. When told of the accident at Amesbury, however, the engineer could not recall anything that might connect his train with it.

After the discovery of the bodies by the searchlight of the northbound train word was sent to Manchester from Hooksett and a special train was made up and sent to the scene with Medical Examiner Maurice Watson. He took the bodies in charge and brought them to Manchester, where they await identification.

RUSSIAN PLAYS BY IRISH

The suggestion made by Mr. Hutchinson that the Irish players should produce some of Teichow's plays is not an impossible one. The company has already produced "Hannibal" and a play by Strindberg and "The Post Office" by Ibsen. Mr. Hutchinson is a little unfortunate in the arguments he uses to support his suggestion. The Irish are not notably kind to dumb animals, as he asserts, nor are they "terribly drunken." They drink less than Englishmen or Scotchmen. At this moment a wave of temperance is sweeping over the whole island. So far as kindness to animals is concerned, the Irish, generally speaking, are no kinder than the English or the Scotch, and in some parts of Ireland they are very much less kind to their beasts than either of the other peoples.

Synges gives instances of cruelty to animals in his plays and in the books on the Aran Islands and Wicklow. In "The Playboy of the Western World," for example, Pagan Mike makes this speech to Christy Mahon, when he announces that he has killed his son: "You never hanged him, the way Jimmy Parrell hanged his dog from the license, and had it screeching and wriggling three hours at the butt of a string, and himself swearing it was a dead dog, and the peddlers swearing it had life." In another place Synges tells a story of Connaught peasants who plucked live geese. In fairness it must be added that these incidents refer to a time when life was cruder and ruder in Ireland than it is now. No doubt these brutalities could easily be paralleled in England or Scotland.—Manchester Guardian.

STEEL WHEELS ARE STRONGEST

In experiments to determine the relative strength of wire, wood and steel wheels, recently conducted on the Michie testing machine at the University of Michigan, the steel wheel proved the strongest. This type did not fall under a lateral pressure of 8,940 pounds to the square inch, whereas the wood wheel collapsed at 4,500 pounds and two spokes in the wire wheel broke at 4,000 pounds. In the better test, however, no nipples pulled through the rim.—American Machinist.

PROGRESSIVE PARTY BANKRUPT

Charles Elliot Fure, Jr., treasurer of the Massachusetts Progressive state committee, admitted Thursday night that the Progressive party organization in Massachusetts was "practically insolvent and that in no instance would it pay more than 50 cents on the dollar upon bills contracted during the last campaign."

Miss Agnes Burleigh is the guest of friends at Lonsome Lake, N. H.

IMPORTANT RAILROAD SUIT

Boston & Maine Seeks to Recover
 Large Sum From Great Falls
 Manufacturing Company

A writ has just been filed in the office of the clerk of the superior court for the county of Strafford by Messrs.
 Branch and Branch, counsel for the Boston and Maine railroad, to recover a large sum claimed to be due the railroad from the Great Falls Manufacturing company for what is termed "ferry car service."

The declaration of the writ alleges that the defendant is and for a long time has been accustomed to receive and ship certain goods over the tracks of the said plaintiff at and from its mills; that divers shipments of less than carload lots from time to time have been received and sent by the defendant, in the handling of which services have been rendered by the plaintiff to said defendant, known as "ferry car services;" that these services have been rendered in accordance with tariffs approved by the interstate commerce commission of the United States and the public service commission of New Hampshire, and were imposed and levied there under in conformity to an act of congress of the United States entitled, "An Act to Regulate Commerce" and the amendments thereto; and further in accordance with Order No. 41 of the public service commission of New Hampshire whereby the defendant became indebted to the plaintiff in the sum of $10,000 for the carriage and transportation of these goods which sum the defendant has refused to pay, as it says in the sum of $10,000.

It is said that this is one of the most important suits that has ever been brought by the railroad and may reach the supreme court of the United States before it is finally adjusted.

WANTS TO SHIFT THE WHISTLE

May Locate It at the Court Street Station.

The city officials and fire department engineers are still busy on the fire alarm question and from the outside it looks as if we are to have the compressed air arrangement for the whistle now attached to the Rockingham County Light and Power plant.
 It is understood that an expert on the compressed air system will come here and meet those interested in the matter. There is a move on foot to shift the whistle from the water front to the central fire station on Court street where it will be more central and where the men of the station could look after the same in connection with their regular work.
